Introduction

Over twenty years ago we started to grow Peonies, Iris and Gladiolus Bulbs in a small way. Our nursery consisted of only a few acres and our sales were limited to a few friends and neighbors.

From the start we operated on a strict policy, that is, to raise only the best varieties and to sell only the strongest and hardiest of the bulbs.

Conducting our business under this policy has resulted in our business growing until now we have over one hundred acres under cultivation and we are shipping to nearly every state in the Union.

Flower lovers who buy from us are universal in praising the bulbs we send them and express their appreciation of our policy by their many reorders from year to year.

If you will read this catalog carefully you will note that we list only the varieties that have proven the most desirable. All of these varieties from the most common to the rarest have been proven satisfactory in trueness to color, shape, standard of type and adaptability to climate and soil conditions under which they must grow. That means that with ordinary care you will be able to grow a strong healthy plant of the type and color you want.

We do not under any circumstances sell small one or two eye divisions of Peony roots. Prices quoted are for three to five eye, well developed, good, strong, healthy stock.

As you have already noticed, we are located at Winona, Minnesota. Our office, storage cellar, warehouses and two of our farms are located on Highway number seven, just inside of the city limits. Highway number seven is also United States Highway number fourteen, and is on the road to Rochester and west to the Black Hills, passing right by our Home place. Our third farm is on Highway number three, about four miles west of Winona. Highway number three is the main Highway from Chicago to Saint Paul or Minneapolis. This Highway starts at La Crosse, Wisconsin, and follows the Mississippi River, being known as the Mississippi River Scenic Highway. If you have never traveled through this state of ten thousand lakes, give yourself a treat this summer by doing so, and be sure to stop off at THE PFEIFFER NURSERY on your way through. Visitors are always welcome. Our fields in full bloom, surrounded by majestic green-clad hills are a sight that will not be forgotten.

We are two families who love flowers and take pride in growing, showing and selling healthy, beautiful, blooming plants and we are anxious to meet as many of our customers and other flower lovers as we can. So, we urge you to stop and get acquainted and see our farms at any time you find yourself in our neighborhood.

Yours very truly,

C. A. PFEIFFER

Terms

We guarantee all plants or bulbs sent out by us to be absolutely true to name, of excellent quality and in good, healthy growing condition. Anything proving otherwise will be gladly replaced free of charge.

As to our responsibility we refer you to Duns, Bradstreets, or to the First National Bank of Winona, Minnesota.

All goods are offered subject to prior sale or crop failure due to conditions over which we have no control, such as hail, fire, etc.

All stock listed in this catalog is sold for cash only. We prepay the postage or express charges to any point in the United States, using our judgment as to whether to send by parcels post or by express, but we can not accept orders under these conditions for less than $2.00. We have unexcelled shipping facilities, five trunk line railroads passing through our city and the express service can not be improved. All remittances should be made payable to THE PFEIFFER NURSERY, either by post office or express order, draft or check. Do not send currency, as this is frequently lost in the mail.

We at all times try to keep our prices in line with the prevailing times and consistently low for the quality of the stock we send out, and the further fact that we prepay the charges is a considerable saving to our patrons. Please do not overlook this fact.

Furthermore, we allow a liberal discount; the larger the order, the larger the discount, as follows: On an order for $5.00 of bulbs and plants you may select $5.75 worth of stock, on a $10.00 order $12.00 worth of stock, on a $25.00 order $29.00 worth of stock on a $50.00 order $60.00 worth of stock and on a $100.00 order $125.00 worth of stock of your own selection. The above liberal discount, however, does not apply to any of our special collection offers which we have listed in our catalog.

THE PFEIFFER NURSERY.

Prices quoted on Peonies are for strong three to five eye divisions only.
We do not sell small divisions.

Peonies

The Planting of the Peony

The Peony is one of the hardiest of all flowering plants, being able to stand a temperature of 25 or more degrees below zero, without the slightest covering in the winter. It also will grow and do well with a minimum amount of attention—although it will respond readily to any care given it and will more than repay you for any work you put on it.

Generally speaking—any good garden soil will produce good Peonies, but a good rich black loam soil, deeply spaded or plowed is the best. If you want to enrich the ground, dig a deep enough hole so you can put about six inches of rotten manure in the bottom and then six inches of dirt on top of this before you plant the Peony. Do not under any circumstances get manure in contact with the roots or over the crown, because if you do, you will rot the roots and be almost certain to ruin your plants.

The best size plant is a division from a two or three year old clump, with three, four or five good big strong buds on it. It should be planted so that the top of the buds are two or three inches below the level of the ground—be careful and not plant too deep, because it will not bloom if you do. Also if planted too shallow it is liable to be heaved out of the ground and injured in this manner.

As to the time of planting, you are apt to hear most anything. Early fall, late fall or early spring planting under certain conditions may all prove satisfactory, and we admit we have planted them at practically every month in the year that they could be moved, but for ourselves we like to plant in the early fall, as soon after the first of September as possible. We know for an actual fact that Peonies planted in the early fall will be way ahead of those planted real late in the fall or early in the spring. As near as we can figure it spring planting is purely a business proposition; used by some of the larger growers to lengthen their planting season, and thereby increase their sales.

We do not believe in selling small one or two eye divisions. The reason some growers do so, is practically the same as spring planting—by so doing they greatly increase their sales. Take for instance the sale of a $10.00 Peony. Everybody who can afford to buy one will. Then when a small division of it is offered for sale at half price a lot of people who have wanted it and could not afford it, will buy—thinking they are getting it cheap. The fact that they may have to wait two or three years before it begins to amount to anything never enters into their consideration.

All right—now that's settled. We are going to plant a large division from a two or three year old clump with the buds two or three inches below the level of the ground; in the months of September or October, if possible. Be sure the ground is firmly packed around the roots. For permanent planting three feet is good average distance to have them apart. Then the first fall after the ground is frozen, cover with a light mulch of straw or hay. After the first year they need no covering of any kind. Planted carefully like this they will be well rooted the first fall and many of them will bloom the following spring, practically all of them the second spring, but don't expect your Peonies to be at their very best until they are three years old. Remember if you expect to get the best results they need to be well cultivated or hoed, and if it's dry and hot when the buds are developing, a little extra water will greatly increase the size of the bloom.

In the following list of Peonies the figures that precede the name is the rate given them by the American Peony Society; figuring 10 as being perfect. Anything rating over 7 is good, over 8 very good, and over 9 is extra good.

Irises

The Irises are undoubtedly one of the most popular of all the hardy perennials, for the following reasons. First, because the plants of many varieties are very inexpensive. Second, they will thrive almost anywhere, but will do best in a warm, well drained soil. Third, because they bloom at a time of the year when very few other flowers are out, and fill in the gap between tulip time and peony time. And fourth, because they have a range of colors which takes you through all the shades from the lightest, palest yellow to rich gold and deep bronze. From delicate pale blues and lavenders to dark blue and violet and deepest purple. From light pink to claret and deep maroon,—all shades of lavender and violet, and pure white, in fact any color or combination of colors you can imagine.

Irises can be planted any time of the year except when they are in bloom, but for the best results July and August are the proper months. Planted at this season they will be well established before the ground freezes, and will come through the winter in nice shape and bloom freely the following spring. The plants should be planted shallow, with the rhizome just below the level of the ground. They should be planted in a loose or well drained soil, and manure should not be used.

Practically the only disease that Irises are troubled with, is the soft rot, and this is caused frequently by poor drainage, excess water, too deep planting, or manure in the ground. The first fall the plants should be mulched with straw or hay to prevent them from heaving out of the ground, but after the first year they will take care of themselves. In four or five years the plants will be large clumps, and should be taken up, separated and planted in new ground.

In the following list S. stands for the standard or upright petals and F. for the falls or drooping petals.

The figures preceding the name of the variety are the rating given by the American Iris Society, 10 being perfect.

MOTHER OF PEARL

A Beautiful Iris.

Very popular with everyone.

This Iris is undoubtedly one of the worlds best. It is a vigorous grower, prolific bloomer and of a wonderful substance and beauty. It is almost impossible to describe its rare beauty and it should be seen to be appreciated. It was originated by Miss Sturtevant in 1921. The S. and F. are pale blue lavender with a faint creamy undertone. Large flowers of perfect form and exceptional substance that have a distinct luster of iridescence, or pearly effect, from which the flower is so aptly named. Special price each this year 50 cents. 3 for $1.25.

One of the many medals and ribbons won by Pfeiffer grown flowers at sectional and national flower shows. This one was awarded for the best all-around display of Iris at the national Iris show in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in 1927 originated by Mr. Prestgard. One of the best of all white varieties. It is pure snow white except for slight violet markings deep in the throat. It has a tall wiry stem, almost straight, excellent for cutting. Many flowers open at one time. Special price. 75c a doz.

GOLDEN DREAM

Originated by Groff

Sensational new variety and undoubtedly the best yellow in commerce. It has the height and strength of growth of Golden Measure with the heavy, thick petals of that variety. The color is a deep yellow. It has a unique and most attractive form with all petals uniformly and evenly rolled back, from 5 to 8 blossoms open at a time. It is in a class by itself and worthy of a place in the finest collection.

Tulips

Strange as it may seem, many people want to buy bulbs of Tulips, Narcissus, etc. in the spring when they are in bloom, but these bulbs can only be supplied in the fall, and should be planted before the ground freezes up.

We import large quantities of Tulips from Holland each year, and supply only bulbs of the highest quality.

Planting: Tulips may be planted any time in October or November before the ground freezes up. Plant in beds or borders 4 to 5 inches deep and about six inches apart. A light covering of straw or other coarse material is advisable, but do not put this cover on until after the ground is frozen solid.

DARWIN TULIPS

Darwin Tulips are beautifully outlined, cup-shaped and carried on tall, stiff stems. They vary in color from almost jet black, crimson and scarlet, purple to lilac, mauve, pink and indescribable intermediate blending and pastel shades. Yellow is the one color missing, but this can be supplied from the Cottage varieties listed under Cottage or May Flowering Tulips.

BREEDER TULIPS

Breeder tulips are closer to the parent type of this ancient flower than others, from which the Darwin race is supposed to have developed, and the richly hued colors are coming into favor. They blossom in May, though not so tall perhaps as the Darwins, but have larger blossoms. The colors include many rare among flowers—browns, bronzes, purples, blue-blacks, deep mauves, dull gold and dark lilac all exquisitely blended.

LILIUM REGALE

The flowers are white, shading yellow in the center, with a pink tinge on the outer edge of petals. A strong grower on slender wiry stems, two to three feet in height. The flowers are of large size when fully expanded, six to eight inches across the trumpet shape bloom. It is deliciously scented, and its extreme hardiness makes it a valuable lily for outdoor planting. Plant six to eight inches deep.

Blooming size bulbs. Each 50c Per doz. $5.00

Our Exhibit at the National Peony Show at St. Paul, Minnesota

A field of Iris the first spring after planting. Notice the vigorous growth of the plants and the profusion of bloom. This is what you might expect when you plant our strong Iris roots early in the fall.
